About the Park:

Konukson Park is a large, wooded park in its natural state, surrounded by residential homes, with multiple trail access points off Arbutus Road, Seapoint Drive, Tudor Avenue, Wolsey Place, and Phyllis Street.

The trails are a mix of fine gravel and bare earth, winding through a landscape that holds cultural significance for local Indigenous communities, as its namesake suggests.

We remain committed to working with the Songhees and Esquimalt Nations to ensure future signage and interpretation reflect both the natural beauty and the deep history of the land.
